

Resistors Color Chart

Resistors are one of the main building blocks of a circuit. They come in a large range of values to fit any type of circuit design. To discern the specific values for a circuit, the resistors are marked with color coded bands that have a different number per color, as well as the tolerance of the resistor. Determine the values of all your resistors with this resistor color chart.

